

POW Letter Held for 2 Years

DETROIT (AP) — Army and congressional sources are trying to determine why a letter which a recently freed Michigan prisoner of war wrote to his family more than two years ago while a captive was not delivered until two weeks ago.

The letter was written by Sgt. John Sexton Jr., 23, of Warren a week after his capture in Vietnam on Aug. 12, 1969. The letter contained a picture of him with a bandaged head and was taken by his Viet Cong captors.

John Sexton Jr., 49, of Warren, the sergeant's father, said the Army turned the letter over to him a week ago — a few days before his son was released Friday by the Viet Cong.

"I was pretty angry at first," the father said. "We thought he was unaccounted for and probably dead for those two years and here they had the letter all along—so I asked them about it."

He said the Army told him the letter had been held up two years while the Army sought to determine if it really was his son's handwriting and assessed its possible propaganda content.

Sexton said he had talked with an Army major in Washington.

"He told me the letter had just come into his hands in the past two weeks from Saigon and that he had verified it as quickly as possible and given it to us."

Rep. Lucien Nedzi, D-Detroit, a long-time member of the House Armed Services Committee, said: "I hate to jump to any conclusions but if this is a fact, it is shocking."

"Some kind of explanation is in order. It should be looked into to determine whether letters that verify that their sons are alive are being withheld from other families."

Nedzi said he expected a report from the Army early this week.

Sexton's parents meanwhile went ahead with plans to fly to the West Coast and meet him when doctors at Long Binh hospital near Saigon say he is fit to travel. He lost 50 pounds during his captivity but gained five back to 140 pounds—in the short time since his release by the Viet Cong and his re-entry into American lines.

Ankara Is First Stop for Agnew

By WALTER MEARS
Associated Press Writer

ANKARA (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew began a 13-day mission to Turkey, Iran and Greece today by declaring that the United States' commitment to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization "stands on a foundation of bedrock."

En route, he voiced opposition to any congressional ban on military aid to Greece.

Arriving in Ankara to a formal, subdued welcome, Agnew told Premier Nihat Erim: "The link our two countries have shared in NATO for more than a decade remains vital, not only to our mutual security but also to the peace of the world."

Agnew is to spend two days conferring with Erim and other officials of the Turkish coalition government, which faces a possible crisis over conservative resistance to political reform moves advocated by the premier.

Erim met Agnew at the airport and rode with him the 20 miles to the city along a highway cleared of other traffic.

Clusters of Turks stood along the roadside and crowds of passersby stood on the sidewalks of downtown Ankara as the motorcade passed.

Earlier, Agnew said Congress will be "impairing and impeding" a foreign policy geared to U.S. security if it votes to ban military assistance to Greece, the last and longest stop on his journey abroad.

Agnew told newsmen aboard his plane during the flight from Washington that Greece is a very important member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and Congress should not "make it more difficult for us to provide the proper amount" of military assistance.

He said if Congressmen take such action, "they are in fact impairing and impeding our ability to implement a foreign policy that is geared to the protection of our own country."

Agnew added that "the opinion in the United States that looks with disfavor on the Greek government generally looks with great disfavor on me."

Aid Suspended

U.S. military aid to Greece was suspended after the military coup in 1967 but the Nixon administration restored it 13 months ago. The House of Representatives has voted to renew the ban unless President Nixon certifies that overriding U.S. security requirements justify military aid, and the Senate Foreign Relations committee is virtually certain to recommend similar Senate action.

Agnew denied that his visit to Turkey today and Tuesday was an effort to balance his later, six-day visit to Greece.

"We have a great stake in Turkey," he said, "and my visit is a primary diplomatic assignment, in no way related to my trip to Greece." He added that the U.S. military presence in Turkey is extremely important to American security as well as to NATO.

The vice president was to confer later today in Ankara with Erim.

Agnew flies to Iran on Wednesday to represent the United States at the celebration of the 2,500th anniversary of the Persian monarchy.

On Oct. 16, he begins his Greek visit, returning to the country of his ancestors," he said today.

Release Is in Answer to Action With American

SAIGON (AP) — The United States and South Vietnam set a North Vietnamese lieutenant free in Cambodia today in a surprise move reciprocating for the release last week of an American sergeant.

"We have no assurance whatever at present that this reciprocal gesture will lead to the release of additional American prisoners," a spokesman for the U.S. Embassy said. "That, however, is the goal toward which we are working."

The POW who had been held by the South Vietnamese, was flown by helicopter into the Fish Hook area of Cambodia 100 miles northwest of Saigon.

The U.S. Embassy said it was freed "in response to insecurity requirements justify military aid, and the Senate Foreign Relations committee is virtually certain to recommend similar Senate action."

Revised School Lunch Programs Being Worked Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is working on a plan to overhaul entirely the complex and politically sensitive school-lunch program, partly as an effort to muzzle a growing chorus wanting free meals for all pupils regardless of need.

The project, still in the think-tank stage, was disclosed in an interview with Asst. Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng, who oversees the government's lunch and other food programs.

Lyng was unwilling to go into

Boy Follows Father, Hangs Self in Cell

CONROE, Tex. (AP) — A 14-year-old boy jailed because "they just wanted to scold him a little bit" hanged himself in the same jail in which his father committed suicide in the same way 10 years ago.

Montgomery County Sheriff Gene Reeves said the boy, Jerome Andrew Price, was found hanging in the cell of the juvenile ward Saturday. Reeves said the boy had tied one leg of his trousers around his neck and the other around a bar in the window.

The youth's father, Fuhlan Price, hanged himself using the same method in the same jail in 1961 while being held on a murder charge. Jerome's brother Jay Price, 25, said their father had been accused of the murder of his mother and nephew.

The youth had been sent to jail Thursday for truancy.

"Actually, the kid hadn't done anything. They just wanted to scold him a little bit," Reeves said.

Jerome's mother, Mrs. L. R. Freeman, said the boy had been jailed by county officers who showed her a report saying his son had missed more than 17 days of school.

Mrs. Freeman said she and her son, a sixth-grader, had been in court earlier Saturday.

Her son pleaded for release. Mrs. Freeman said, but the judge decided to have him returned to the jail.

The judge "just thought that extra day in jail might help him," Mrs. Freeman said.

"I don't know whether I should start blaming people or just sit down and wonder."

Jay Price said his brother spent most of his time outdoors and added, "You put someone in a cage that's been raised in the woods all his life and it's kind of hard for them to take"

Intoxicated Patients Rebel At Ward for Criminally Insane

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (AP) — A hospital official says seven inmates who seized control of a ward at Connecticut's Security Treatment Center for the criminally insane were so intoxicated after the disturbance ended that their complaints could not be understood.

There were no major injuries and no escape attempts, he said.

The seven burned mattresses and smashed windows during a 2½-hour disturbance Sunday night at the 58-inmate institution. It is part of the state mental hospital, Connecticut Valley Hospital, also located here.

"There did not have to be any direct coercion on the part of the police" in quelling the disturbance, said state Mental Health Commissioner Ernest A. Shepherd.

He said several of the inmates talked in the courtyard of the facility with Dr. Abraham Zeichner, acting coordinator of the center, and the rest "were persuaded to come out."

When the patients made their complaints, Zeichner said, "they were so intoxicated that we couldn't understand them."

He said he didn't know where the inmates might have obtained alcohol or drugs.

Center staff personnel tried to quell the disturbance when it started, but withdrew after mattresses were set ablaze and windows broken.

Firemen and police called to the scene were able to extinguish the fires without interference, Shepherd said.

He said eight inmates were in the seized ward, but one patient been closed.

Each of the six wards at the center is a self-contained unit which includes dining, sleeping, recreation and therapy facilities for 25 patients.

Shepherd said patients at the center either had been judged transferred to the center not guilty because of insanity, recently from Norwich State Hospital. The antiquated maximum security unit there has jail.

Five Killed in Ohio

Church Boiler Explodes

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — Sons in the Sunday school wing of the church were injured when the street-level boiler room of the 152-year-old church in Marietta exploded Sunday.

The explosion came less than a half hour after services had ended in the main church building. A few persons remained there, listening to organ music, and religious classes were in progress on all three floors of the Sunday school wing of the church.

The building's janitor was notified shortly after 11 to check the boiler when the steam was spotted seeping out of the room. According to police records, the water temperature read 140 degrees, about 30 degrees above normal.

The boiler reportedly was shut down.

The U.S. Command announced that Sexton would be flown to the United States Tuesday after being released from an Army hospital.

Fighting continued today in the Cambodian border region around Khek and Fire Base Alpha although enemy shelling tapered off during the night. It was one of the quietest nights since the North Vietnamese launched an offensive there Sept. 26, field reports said.

New fighting flared some 50 miles to the southwest in Cambodia. South Vietnamese troops claimed they killed 46 of the enemy at a cost of seven of their own men killed and 15 wounded, along the Saigon-Phnom Penh highway 80 miles from Saigon. It was the first fighting in that area in several weeks.

Guinea Leftists Getting Support From Soviet Navy

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence sources report a Russian naval force is being used to prop up leftist President Sekou Toure of Guinea and, at the same time, extend Soviet influence on Africa's West Coast.

Three Soviet warships, including a powerful Kashin-class guided-missile frigate, have been moored in the harbor of the Guinean capital of Conakry almost continuously since late August. They left the harbor late last week but are expected back.

Intelligence reports quote Guinean officials as saying the Soviet ships, which have been berthed only one half-mile from the presidential palace, were there to protect President Toure.

Last November, Conakry was attacked by what Guinea claimed were Portuguese-financed mercenaries. A United Nations investigating team later blamed Portuguese soldiers and Guinean rebels. Portugal, whose African colonies have been the target of nationalist guerrilla activity, denied the charges.

Appeal For Help

Toure, whose Guinean armed forces number only a little more than 5,000 men, appealed for help and U.S. intelligence says the Soviet Union sent naval units to Conakry from the Mediterranean.

Little noted, except by Western intelligence, Soviet warships have been in or near Guinean waters ever since last fall.

The virtually constant presence of the frigate, a guided-missile destroyer, a tank-landing ship and a supporting merchant-type tanker at Conakry over the past few weeks indicates to some American analysts that the Russians are trying to extend their influence in that area of West Africa.

Unfolding Pattern

To some U.S. officials, this is another piece in an unfolding pattern. Over the past seven years they have watched the Russians broaden and lengthen their naval reach, expanding fleet operations in the Mediterranean, cruising the Indian Ocean on a regular basis, and sailing periodically to Cuba and the Caribbean.

According to some diplomatic sources, Toure has refused a Soviet request to build a naval base at Conakry.

To American intelligence analysts, it seems unlikely that Moscow would want to make the investment needed to build and equip a base there in view of the unstable political climate.

They believe it is more likely that Russia will ask for unrestricted use of the Conakry port for its ships operating along the West African coast.

GOP Faithfuls Win Many Top Nonpolitical HUD Posts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Successful "merit system" applicants for new top-paying housing posts in the career federal service have found it doesn't hurt to be a Republican.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development won't specify the number of directors of new area offices who have blue-chip GOP credentials, but at least 14 of the 32 directors do.

The U.S. Civil Service Commission classifies the jobs as nonpolitical and ostensibly reserves them for the most-qualified candidates, but only nine career federal officials have been promoted to area director. Six of these nine began government service under the Republican administration of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The other 23 holding the $24,251-to-$31,523-a-year jobs came from outside government or from the ranks of the Nixon administration.

Among them is Wayne Babbut of Little Rock, Ark., a former veterinary hospital owner and director of the Arkansas Livestock and Poultry Commission in the former Republican administration of Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

Controlling the flow of federal housing aid in neighboring Tennessee is Carroll G. Oakes, a former Republican state senator who owned an automobile agency in Morristown, Tenn.

Oakes has proven a fast learner, say his bosses in Washington.

"I really expected him to be the worst that ever came down the pike," said C. March Miller, special assistant for personnel to HUD Secretary George Romney. "But he has gotten such high marks since he's been director, I've really been amazed."

Miller said HUD has been appointing the "best-qualified" people, who haven't always been the people recommended by Republicans.

They include Elmer Smith of the St. Louis area office who was Republican state chairman in Missouri. Crealey S. Buchanan of Manchester, N.H., Robert H. Breeden of Oklahoma City and Oakes of the Knoxville office formerly served as GOP state senators.

Other new area directors with Republican connections include Jon W. Pitts, Birmingham, Ala., former aide to a GOP congressman; Frank D. Cera-bone, Buffalo, N.Y., a former aide to the Republican speaker of the New York State Assembly; Lawrence L. Thompson, Hartford, Conn., a former researcher for the GOP National Committee.

And E. Boone Cov. Indianapolis, a former Republican legislator, Guy J. Birch, Omaha, a former assistant U.S. attorney under the Eisenhower administration; James H. Price, San Francisco, a former aide to a Republican mayor; and Fergus A. Theibert, Columbus, Ohio, Charles J. Lieberth, Pittsburgh, and M. Daniel Richardson Jr., Boston, each of the St. Louis area office who was Republican state chairman in Missouri. Crealey S. Buchanan of Manchester, N.H., Robert H. Breeden of Oklahoma City and Oakes of the Knoxville office formerly served as GOP state senators.

Lobby for Marijuana Law Reform Makes Little Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — R agree Keith Stroup runs Washington's feeblest lobby.

Aim: Legalize marijuana for adults. Legislative results: Zero. So far.

The shaggy-haired 27-year-old lawyer founded the National Organization to Reform Marijuana Laws last January on money from the Playboy magazine foundation.

He quit smoking the stuff himself, he says, for fear his new activity would attract police attention.

NORML has hired a secretary and four part-time staffers, printed stationery and pamphlets, assembled a prestigious advisory board, attracted 1,400 dues-paying members and run up a $2,000 telephone bill out of its office in the semi-basement of Stroup's home.

No Convert

But it has not enticed a single congressman or senator to introduce a bill to accomplish NORML's aim. And there remains the matter of 50 state laws which, despite a recent trend to reduce penalties for marijuana smoking, still carry first-offense punishments ranging from a minimum of probation in many states to a maximum of life in prison in Texas.

If NORML has its way, marijuana could be purchased legally by adults—those 18 or over—at state-licensed stores, like liquor stores. Advertising would be prohibited.

"We do not advocate the use of marijuana," Stroup says in his standard pitch. "But we know of no medical, legal or moral justification for sending those to jail who do use it. We believe the present marijuana laws cause more harm to society than the substance they seek to prohibit."

Many Agree

NORML's mailbag is filled with letters from those who testify before the National Commission on Marijuana and Drug Abuse, a congressionally chartered blue-ribbon panel scheduled to report marijuana findings in March.

Stroup had considered the cards were stacked because the commission's executive director, Michael Sonnenreich, is a former drug lawyer for the Justice Department.

But NORML has since been allowed to present its views, and Stroup is encouraged by a recent statement by Sonnenreich that he considers alcohol abuse the nation's biggest drug problem.

"I'm guessing the commission will recommend the repeal of all criminal penalties for simple possession of marijuana," Stroup says.

"This could be a very exciting year."

Communist Chinese Recognized by Bulk Of Members of U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Four more U.N. members recognize Communist China than recognize Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist regime, researchers reported today.

The United Nations' Dag Hammarskjold Library, in a "reference aid" prepared in advance of the General Assembly debate next week on whether to offer the Red regime membership and expel the Nationalists, nize Peking and 56 that recognize Peking and 56 that recognize the Taiwan government.

In the debate beginning next Monday, the 130 U.N. members must decide whether to pass an Albanian resolution which would seat Peking and oust Taiwan or a U.S. proposal to seat both Chinas in the Assembly and give Peking China's permanent seat on the Security Council. Another U.S. resolution would make any attempt to oust Taiwan an "important question," requiring a two-thirds vote for passage rather than a simple majority.

Earlier Decision

Ten of the countries that recognize Peking have done so since last November when the Assembly voted 51-49 to seat Peking and oust Taiwan. But the Assembly decided earlier in that session that any such change would require a two-thirds majority.

Not all of the 10 are certain to vote this year for the Albanian resolution or against the U.S. plan. One of them, Mauritius, is cosponsoring both U.S. proposals.

The other nine who have recognized Peking since last Nov. 20 are Cameroon, Senegal, Sierra Leone, Togo, Austria, Turkey, Kuwait, Iran and Peru. Although their links with Communist China might incline them to vote against the "important question" resolution, current indications are that some of them are likely to abstain from voting on it. One or two may even vote for it.

Nationalist Chinese efforts to keep the Communists from taking over China's seats in the United Nations were reflected Sunday in the changed emphasis of speeches marking the Nationalist regime's 60th Double Ten, the anniversary of the revolution against the Manchu emperors that began in 1911 on Oct. 10th, the 10th day of the 10th month.

The speakers repeated the customary calls for the return of the Nationalist government to the mainland but also stressed appeals for the economic buildup of Taiwan and the unity of the Taiwanese and the mainlanders who fled with Chiang to the island. The return to the mainland, from which Mao Tse-tung drove the Nationalists in 1949, had always dominated policy speeches in the past.

Chiang in a holiday message called on his people to "meet changes with a heightened alertness and adaptability." He also promised "the victory and the success of national recovery" in the next decade.

Sheriff Chokes On Steak, Dies

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Trempealeau County Sheriff Stanley W. Amundson, 43, died in a Madison hospital late Sunday after choking on a piece of steak at an East Side restaurant.

Authorities said a five to six inch piece of filet became lodged in his throat, cutting off his air supply.

Amundson, a former Milwaukee police officer, is survived by his wife, a son and two daughters. Funeral arrangements were pending.

Ellington Band Delights Russians

MOSCOW (AP) — Duke Ellington and his band, which delighted the audience, came in for a touch of minor criticism and a little praise from poet Yevgeny Yevtushenko.

Ellington's audience of 1,300 clapped and shouted for more when his jazz performance was over Saturday. "Take The A-Train" and "Satin Doll" went over the best.

Yevtushenko, who was in the audience, told newsmen during intermission that the Ellington sound was "a bit old fashioned" but "perfectly executed."

Following Ellington's successes in Leningrad, Minsk, Kiev and Rostov-on-Don, Soviet authorities agreed to add to his schedule matinees today and Tuesday in the 10,400-seat Sports Palace.

Borgnine Hurt In Duel Scene

TORREON, Mexico (AP) — Actor Ernest Borgnine was cut on his back by flying glass during filming of "The Revenagers," a spokesman for the production company reports.

Borgnine and William Holden were filming a duel scene for the Western when Borgnine moved too close to a window that was being shattered by gunshots as part of the scene, the spokesman explained Sunday.

A doctor from the film company treated Borgnine, who is expected to return to work early this week.

Back From a Summer USO tour of Guam, the Philippines, Japan and other points Far East, The Night Howls from St. Paul will sing at the Barbershop program Saturday night, Oct. 23, at the Kaukauna Civic Auditorium. They are headliners on the Kaukauna-Little Chute SPEBSQSA chapter's annual Album of Harmony. The program starts at 8 p.m.

Want to Buy a Mansion?

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Cause for panic? Columnist Hank Grant reports that 400 mansions are up for sale in Beverly Hills, long the prime territory for the film famous.

Some observers might cite this as strong evidence that the movie depression has struck at the traditional life-style of film stars. That's part of the story.

Another element is that many stars no longer need to live here to maintain their careers.

Hawaii Inviting

Peter Fonda, for example, Once a resident of a Beverly Hills hilltop, he now hankers to move his family to a permanent home on the island of Maui in Hawaii. He would return only for film making.

His partner in "Easy Rider," Dennis Hopper, after filming "The Last Movie" in Peru, established residence in New Mexico and assembled the film there.

Robert Redford built his home on a mountain near Provo, Utah, and is promoting a ski resort there. He also maintains an apartment in New York but declines residence in Hollywood, where he does most of his work.

Europe Attractive

Some stars who have specialized in international films prefer Switzerland. William Holden was a pioneer, moving there 15 years ago. Others who favor the cool Alps, not to mention the tax advantages are David Swanson, Deborah Kerr, Yule Brynner, Elizabeth Taylor and Richard Burton.

Ecology-minded Dick Van Dyke abandoned Encino for a ranch near Phoenix. CBS was so anxious for his return to television that his new series "Shirley" was made in Arizona at considerable more expense than it would have cost here.

Richard Boone recently ended seven years of residence in Hawaii. His next home? "Nevermore, Nevermore," he vows. The San Francisco area seems to be attracting his favor.

That's where Bing Crosby settled with his second family. He resides in the peninsula community of Hillsborough.

Others remain in Southern California but eschew Los Angeles. John Wayne, Raquel Welch, Buddy Ebsen and Clair Trevor live at Newport Beach. Robert Young at Rancho Santa Fe near San Diego. Many stars now live almost the year around in Palm Springs and other desert resorts nearby, some in retirement. Among them: Red Skelton, Frank Sinatra, William Powell and William Holden (Hoppalong Cassidy) Boyd.

Empire State

New York remains a lure for stars, new and old. Liza Minnelli, Dustin Hoffman, Faye Dunaway, Elliott Gould and other recent stars maintain residence there. So do such veterans as Joan Crawford, Myrna Loy, Joan Fontaine and Gloria Swanson, as well as those who have been attracted by Broadway jobs: Jane Russell, Ruby Keller, Alexis Smith, Yvonne DeCarlo, Anne Baxter, Joan Blondell, etc.

Others, such as Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward, so anxious for his return to man and television that his new series "Shirley" was made in Arizona at considerable more expense than it would have cost here.

Even Elvis Presley is pulling up stakes. He plans to maintain his residence in Memphis, Tenn., and has put up for sale his Trousdale Estates home. It can be bought for $550,000.

'60 Minutes' Appears on New Night

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 Channels 2-7 — 60 Minutes covers two main topics tonight: one, reported by Morley Safer, is titled, "Very Quiet on the Eastern Front." It deals with United States' involvement in NATO. The second segment, reported by Mike Wallace, is in a somewhat lighter vein. It attempts to answer the question: what motivated 50,000 Americans to leave major U. S. cities to live in London? The couples interviewed are from New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and Washington. Other segments will be announced.

7-7:30 Channels 11-9 — Elsa Lanchester appears as Aunt Henrietta, also known as Princess Lotus Flower, on Nanny and the Professor. She feels Nanny (Juliet Mills) is leading a dull life and thinks she should join Henrietta's traveling circus. She makes a prediction about Nanny which causes all the busybody neighbors to pry into Nanny's life. In self-defense, Nanny has to make the prediction come true.

7-8 Channels 2-7 — Gunsmoke has a good script, brought about when Milburn Stone had to leave the series for heart surgery. (He's back at work now and will be seen later this season.) Pat Hingle plays Dr. Chapman, who has leased Doc Adams' practice and who arouses the suspicions of Festus (Ken Curtis), who manages to lock him up.

7-8 Channel 5 — Rowan and Martin's Laugh-In looks at Hollywood, with Frank Gorshin providing some impressions, notably Richard Burton, Edward G. Robinson providing his own impression of himself and Tony Curtis providing his impression of a cop. There's a Charlie Chaplin-silent film look to the News and Buffalo Bob and Howdy Doody are back again. So is that you'll never-guess-who-he-is Mystery Person.

8-8:30 Channels 2-7 — Never mind how it happens, just be delighted that, on Here's Lucy, Lucille Ball winds up in quarantine with three astronauts. She manages to get Uncle Harry (Gale Gordon) quarantined too, and naturally, she's hysterical as she croons "moon" songs, discovers she is talking to the President on the telephone, and turns one astronaut against the other two.

9-Conclusion Channels 11-9 — The New York Giants are in Dallas where they meet the Cowboys on NFL Monday Night Football. The Cowboys, of course, were the Super Bowl losers last year. Don Meredith, Frank Gifford and Howard Cosell are the sportscasters.

Retired Teacher To Your Good Health Group Planning Oshkosh Parley

Speakers Named for Two-Day Convention Set This Week

OSHKOSH — Bernard E. Nash, executive director of the National Retired Teachers Association; Theodore Mack, president, People's Brewery; and Sam Boardman, representative of Association Administrators, will be guest speakers when members of the Wisconsin Retired Teachers Association meet in annual session here Wednesday and Thursday.

Sessions will be at the Oshkosh Holiday Inn except for the president's tea and reception, highlight of the first day, which will be held at the Paine Art Center and Arboretum.

WRTA directors will meet at 9 a.m., followed by luncheon before the opening session on Wednesday.

City Mgr. Gordon Jaeger will welcome the association, and Winnebago Camp Fire Girls will present the colors at the 1:30 p.m. meeting. Boardman will speak on recent developments in NRTA insurance.

The 7 p.m. dinner will include Mack's address on "Changing of Priorities." Entertainment will be by the Oshkosh High School Concert Choir.

Thursday's 9 a.m. session will include the annual business meeting and a delegate assembly.

Speaker at the concluding luncheon will be Nash, who is also executive director of the American Association of Retired Persons. His address is "NRTA and the Retired Teacher — A Last Statement. Most diagnostic procedures have certain limitations. It is true that an ECG (cardiogram) doesn't tell everything about a heart. Neither does the stethoscope, nor X-ray. Nor does a general physical examination tell it all, either.

But they all tell something, and the ECG tells many things that other tests cannot. Are you suggesting we throw it away entirely because it has limitations? Further, it sounds to me as though you are contradicting yourself a bit, aren't you? You ask, "Why does the medical profession depend on this device?" Yet you say that the two doctors in the cases you cite have given the patients nitroglycerin — a standard remedy for angina.

Sounds to me as though neither of them are "depending" on the ECG, but after hearing the symptoms think there's evidence of angina anyway. One very important thing you haven't mentioned at all. Do the nitroglycerin tablets help when there is an attack? If so, it would be strong evidence that it is angina. If not, then it's time to start looking elsewhere for the causes of the attacks. I dare say I'm typical of most physicians. I want patients to trust me to do my level best to read all the signs I can detect. BY G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Doctor: Two women in my family, not related by blood, suffered periodic hard chest pains, feelings of suffocation and faintness, with great lassitude afterward. They live in different areas, have different doctors. Both are in their early 50s and commonly quite energetic. Neither is overweight. Each has had several cardiograms and physical examinations. In each case the doctor will not commit himself to a diagnosis but has them carry nitroglycerin pills. My question: Why does the medical profession depend on this device when it is known to be inadequate and in many cases completely wrong? — Mrs. D.M.P.

Small Boxes Create Homemade Games

BY CAPPY DICK

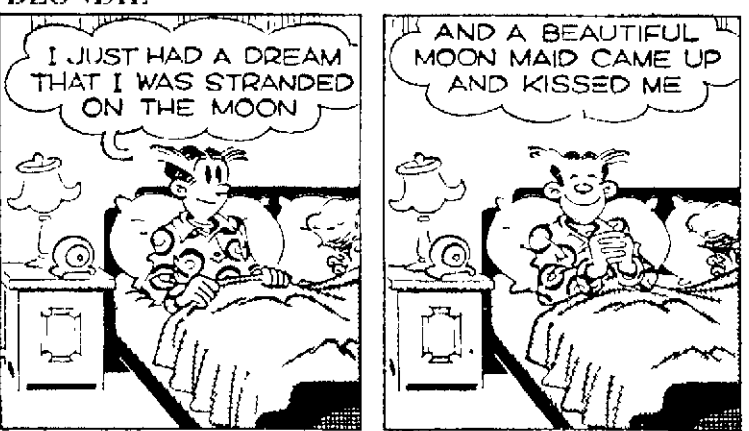

Two small cardboard boxes that are cubes (boxes such as cosmetic jars come in) are needed for today's homemade game. You also will need a

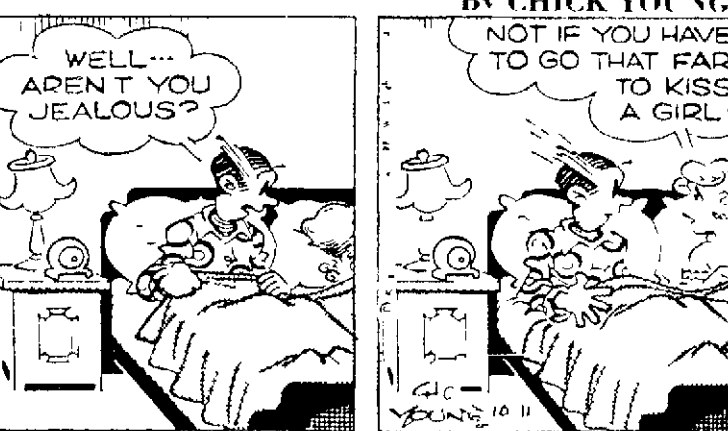

Numbered Sides drawing board or other flat object on which to flip the two cubes. Number the sides of one cube from 1 to 6 as shown in figure 1 where the sides of the cubes are spread out. Number the sides of the other cube from 7 to 12 as shown in figure 2. Figure 3 shows the assembled cubes after being numbered. Place both cubes at the center of your drawing board. Flip them upward (figure 4). As they land on the board, have a score keeper write down the top number on each cube. The total of those two numbers is your score for that flip. The score shown in figure 3, for instance, would be 8 points. Flip the cubes nine more times with the score keeper taking note of the total points on the top sides. It is then the next player's turn and he gets 10 flips. The game continues until all the players have executed 10 flips. The one who winds up with the highest total of points is the winner. If a cube should fall to the floor, the player who flipped it must finish his remaining flips without it. Thus a fallen cube represents a real loss. Argentine Regime Strengthened by Attempted Coup

By LOUIS UCHITELLE
Associated Press Writer
BUENOS AIRES (AP) — President Alejandro Lanusse appears to have emerged stronger than before from the attempt Friday to overthrow his government. This makes it easier for him to fulfill his promise of general elections in 1973.

Nearly 50 army officers and retired officers were jailed on charges of leading the attempted coup or of plotting against Lanusse's seven-month-old government. All were on record in favor of continuing the authoritarian military rule Argentina has had since 1966. Lanusse has promised to turn over the government to civilian leaders elected in March 1973. The most prominent prisoner is ex-President Roberto M. Levingston, a retired general who was the nation's chief executive until Lanusse ousted him in a palace coup last March 23.

The rebels, operating from two rural army bases, took control of radio stations in the pampa cities of Azul and Olavarría and broadcast demands for Lanusse's resignation. Behind the generalized rhetoric loomed the election issue and Lanusse's appointment with ex-dictator Juan D. Peron, who is still feared and hated by many top military officers.

In Jail
Lanusse spent four years in jail while Peron was president, but he feels now that parliamentary government won't work without the cooperation of Peron's many followers.

The rebels had 1,200 troops and a dozen tanks, but no one joined them. By 11:30 p.m. Friday—eight hours after the revolt began—Lanusse was the winner. He angrily told a nationwide radio and television audience that the rebel leaders were "reactionaries," "totalitarians," "rightists" and "enemies of the great popular majority and of democracy."

Student organizations, labor unions, political parties, businessmen's associations and even the Communist party issued public statements during the night endorsing Lanusse and urging defeat for the "fascist" rebels.

Rebels Surrendered

Almost 10,000 troops had surrounded Azul by dawn. The rebels surrendered without firing a shot although they did try to dynamite a bridge to slow the advance toward Azul. The only casualties were a woman bus passenger killed when the bus collided with a tank, and two enlisted men injured in the collision of two army vehicles.

Lanusse, 52, who is the army commander in chief as well as president, directed the attack against the rebels and the arrests. He remained at army headquarters for 25 hours leaving only after the last arrest had been made. He also transferred two garrison commanders suspected of sympathizing with the rebels.

Refusal to Obey Orders Is Investigated
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. military officials said today they are investigating a report that several American soldiers balked at accompanying a night ambush patrol in an area of recent heavy fighting.

A spokesman for the 3rd Region Military Assistance Command said some members of the 12-man patrol "expressed a desire not to go" when ordered Saturday night to move out from Fire Base Pace to set ambushes for enemy troops operating in the area on the Cambodian border.

The men's commander gave the order again, but "at this point it was learned that a South Vietnamese patrol had already moved into the field and the intended ambush position, so the order was canceled," the spokesman said.

The inquiry apparently is to determine whether charges should be filed against any of the soldiers.

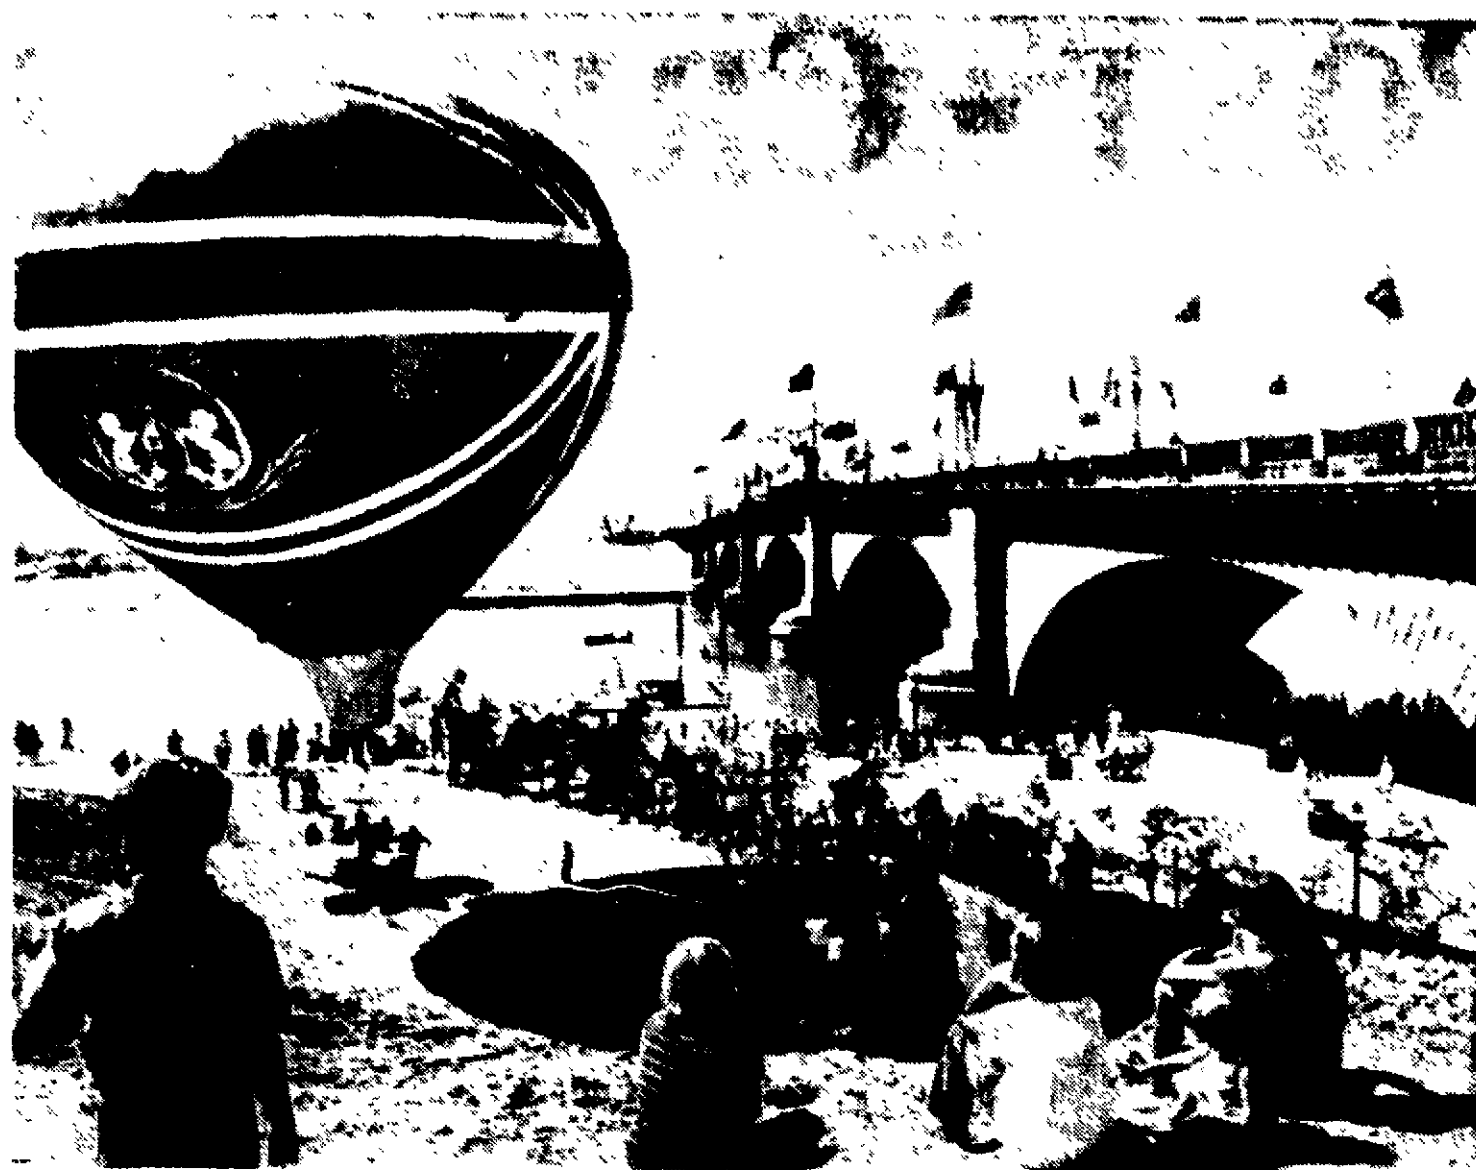

The spokesman said he had no knowledge of reports that the men had sent complaints about their situation to Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

Fire Base Pace is located on Highway 22 where it crosses the Cambodian border seven miles south of the rubber plantation town of Krack. The artillery base has been under partial siege for the last two weeks, taking North Vietnamese rockets and mortar fire almost every day while enemy anti-aircraft guns ringed it shoot at helicopters trying to supply the base.

Amid Balloonists and other grandiose fanfare and for the second time in 140 years, London Bridge is officially opened — this time in the Arizona desert at Lake Havasu City. (AP Wirephoto)

London Bridge Reopened in Arizona

LAKE HAVASU CITY, Ariz. (AP) — It was enough to make a cockney cringe.

There was the London Bridge, in the Arizona desert, supporting two red and white tents, with crowds of people streaming across it.

To a Texas-style barbecue? With great hoopla, the 140-year-old bridge, brought here brick by brick from London, was restored to service Sunday as part of the main street of this newly developed city.

The developers, McCulloch Corp., bought the grand old lady of the Thames for $2.4 million and reconstructed it over a new concrete cone on a peninsula extending into Lake Havasu. A channel was dug beneath the bridge, which leads to an airport.

Norman Hall, a director of the City of London Corp., which sold the bridge to McCulloch, said he noted some changes in the bridge.

Arch in Center

"It has a little higher arch in the center, it's humbler," Hall said. "They left off about 50 feet at one end which was an overpass for a street on the Surrey side. It already looks cleaner in the Arizona sun and I understand that you have sandstorms that might actually clean it more."

The red and white tents were the scene of a gala dinner for 700 Saturday night, including many prospective land buyers flown by McCulloch to this city of 8,000 on the Arizona-California border.

In addition to the barbecue, there were sky diving exhibitions, fireworks, stunt flying and canoe and water ski races.

Sir Peter Studd, lord mayor of London, and Arizona Gov. Jack Williams said the reconstructed 952-foot bridge would serve as a symbol of friendship between Britain and the United States.

And Hall made a sales pitch for another bridge the city of London just happens to have available.

The Waterloo Bridge dismantled 33 years ago, he said, is now in a junkyard, "waiting for a buyer."

Most West Coast Ports Open

Los Angeles Docks Remain Closed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A dispute involving 11 workers may keep Los Angeles area docks closed until Friday, despite a federal court order temporarily ending a strike of 15,000 West Coast longshoremen.

All 24 ports struck by the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union July 1 were operating today except for the side-by-side Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors, the largest port in the West.

East and Gulf coast ports, except for some in Texas, remained closed by a strike of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Association.

Attica Death Count Rises, Guard Dies

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The death of a wounded guard, who had been held hostage in last month's Attica prison riot, has raised the riot death toll to 43.

Harrison W. Whalen, 37, of Alexander died Saturday in Strong Memorial Hospital where he was admitted with gunshot wounds Sept. 13, the day state troopers stormed the prison with rifles and shotguns to regain control of a rebel-held section.

The Monroe County medical examiner's office said an autopsy showed that Whalen died of complications "resulting from wounds produced by buckshot pellets."

Whalen was a guard in Cell block D, where the riot centered, and was among 39 guards and civilian employees seized as hostages when the rebellion broke out.

A total of 32 prisoners and 11 prison employees, including Whalen, were fatally wounded during the insurrection and the tear gas and gun assault that ended it.

Whalen, a Navy veteran of the Korean War, is survived by his widow and two daughters.

which was not affected by the court order.

No talks were scheduled in New York, and no developments were expected until Wednesday Thomas W. "Teddy" Gleason, president of the ILA, was due to attend a labor summit meeting in Washington Tuesday on Phase 2 of the president's economic program.

Arbitrator George Love ruled against the ILWU Saturday in a Los Angeles dispute over whether the Pacific Maritime Association, representing 120 employers, could request 11 experienced men by name to shape up docks for work.

The union appealed and Love took the matter under consideration.

A PMA spokesman in Los Angeles, John MacEvoy, said he doesn't expect a decision before Friday at the earliest and that the docks could be tied up until then.

The 11 men have the job of moving and starting equipment such as forklifts and cranes before work gangs are ordered for loading and unloading ships. The shippers' group says it takes 24 hours to get cargo-handling going after these specialty workers, known as "steady men," return to work.

The ILWU said the men declined to accept the jobs because they felt available work should be shared equitably among qualified workers.

The union contested the employer request for specific men. The PMA says management has the right to order steady men by name.

Bernard J. Caughlin, general manager of the Port of Los Angeles, said:

"I thought the injunction (sending the men back to longshoremen to return to work) was issued on the basis that workers would be returning under the conditions that prevailed prior to the strike, and PMA was using steady men at that time."

Los Angeles dock activity was restricted to operations on military ships unaffected by the strike, and two vessels whose owners are not PMA members.

U.S. District Court Judge Spencer Williams of San Francisco signed the temporary order Wednesday night directing longshoremen to return to work immediately under a contract which expired June 30.

Drug Traffic Thought Part Of Waukesha Gun Battle

Waukesha, Wis. (AP) — A Waukesha man has been of heroin. The complaint states changed with possession of heroin. Krueger purchased the drug which police said he purchased from Albert Barrera, 33, who was shot and killed Friday night.

Waukesha authorities said Sunday the gun battle which killed Barrera and then wounded 53, who was shot and killed Friday night, was part of a drug traffic.

The Waukesha County deputy district attorney, Jerome Cahill, charged Spencer Krueger, 21, tai.

Rogers Warns of Legal Danger in Expelling Chinese

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers says the United Nations without Nationalist China would be ripe for expulsion of 10 other countries and for challenges to the legality of past Security Council actions.

Regardless of the justification, Rogers said, expulsion of Taiwan would be "a very dangerous precedent and will be very, I think, detrimental to the future of the United Nations because I can think of 10 other nations that would be on the list in the future."

Rogers, interviewed Sunday on the CBS program "Face the Nation," did not name the states he considers vulnerable.

"Let me say, too, that if the Republic of China is expelled, I can imagine that nations like Albania and others might claim that ... all actions taken by the Security Council since its beginning were illegal," Rogers said.

Nationalist China is a member of the Security Council.

"The position could be taken, he said, that since its presence is not proper now, "its presence was never appropriate in the first place."

Rogers said press reports about the lineup of U.N. votes on the U.S. aim of retaining Nationalist China while seating Mainland China are too pessimistic.

They have been contradicted in private talks with foreign ministers, he said, declining to name the nations involved.

"It's a horse race, but I think we're going to be successful," Rogers also said.

"The time has never been more favorable than now" for an Arab-Israeli settlement despite statements from both sides that their mutually exclusive positions are not negotiable.

No Concessions
"In any negotiation, whether it's this or the Berlin talks or even a labor negotiation, both sides say 'We won't make any further concessions,'" said Rogers.

"All I'm saying is that based on our discussions, we think, given the goodwill and good intentions of both nations, that an interim agreement is possible."

Asked if he has been offered nomination to the Supreme Court by President Nixon, Rogers said he has not, and is not interested in the high bench.

Hinchliffe made a one-minute appearance at Bow Street Magistrate's Court and was ordered held without bail for another appearance Oct. 18. He entered no plea.

The charge said that "on the date unknown between July 1968 and April 1971, in Khartoum, Sudan, Africa, he did for a purpose prejudicial to the safety or interests of the state communicate to another person a document which was calculated to be or might be or was intended to be directly or indirectly useful to an enemy."

Joined in 1964
A tall, gray-haired man with a wispy goatee, Hinchliffe has been a lower ranking staff member of the British Embassy in Algiers since early this year, diplomatic sources said.

Previously he had worked in the Embassy in Khartoum since 1968, they said. He is believed to have joined the Foreign Service in 1964.

Hinchliffe is the fourth person charged under the Official Secrets Act since the announcement last month that Soviet trade official Oleg L'vlin had detected and given information on a Soviet spy ring. But officials said Hinchliffe's case was not connected with the other three.

Menominees Reach Baraboo on Sunday
BARABOO, Wis. (AP) — Menominee Indians on a 20-mile march from Keshena to Madison protesting sale of Indian lands in Menominee County, stopped south of Baraboo Sunday night on their "March for Justice."

The Indians left Keshena Oct. 2 on the march, which they plan to conclude this week at a meeting with Gov. Patrick J. Lucey about the development and other Menominee County problems.

Medical School "War" Yields Another Dean Casualty

BY TIM WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The University of Wisconsin Board of Regents fared from existence last week, still grappling with — and unable to solve — a more than decade-old problem that has shaken the school's presidents and which has led to the firing and resignation of deans.

In its final moments, the board accepted the resignation of Peter Eichman, latest of the UW's medical school's ill-fated deans to depart under less-than-happy circumstances.

In the face of thinly-veiled explanations handed out to a questioning regent, Eichman's resignation marks the latest casualty of a bitter battle waged since the 1950's within the medical school and the university.

And it is one of the first battles which will confront the newly-merged Board of Regents of the University of Wisconsin system which comes into existence this week.

Direct Impact on New School
It could have a direct impact on the future development of the mammoth state medical complex being designed for the UW campus in Madison at a cost conservatively estimated at $130 million.

It is a battle which shook President Conrad Elvehjem; vexed President Fred Harington throughout his reign; and now has been dumped into the lap of UW President John Weaver. It also culminated in the firing of Medical School Dean John Bowers and the double-resignation of Eichman who stepped down a year ago, stepped back up again, and climaxed it all by resigning Friday.

"What's this all about?" asked a seemingly-bewildered Regent Walter Renk of Sun Prairie. "This is the second resignation of Peter Eichman

Is there a motivating force behind it this time?" he asked.

Regent Ody Fish of Hartland, former state Republican Party chief and a principle behind-the-scenes power on the phased-out board, jumped in quickly to tell Renk that Eichman had "rescinded" his resignation of a year ago at the urging of many board members and in central administration.

Steady Hand at Helm

Eichman was needed, said Fish, to provide a steady hand at the helm of the medical school while a special regent and faculty committee conducted a national search and screening process for a new vice chancellor for medical affairs on the Madison campus.

That post is being created, said Madison Chancellor H. Edwin Young because the "complex" administrative problems of medical affairs need a high level voice in the administration, especially during the time of medical center construction. He will free the head of the medical school from those problems for the task of daily administration of the school.

"Is this resignation a result of those problems we have over there that never seem to get settled?" asked Renk about the medical school.

Plagued With Problems

Young admitted that the medical school historically has been plagued with personnel and administrative problems. But the resignation was not a result of those problems, he maintained. One way to solve the problems will be to name a vice chancellor for the field, he said.

"The medical school is the most complicated part of the campus," Chancellor Young told Renk. "And controversial," replied Renk.

The medical school is filled with "talented and creative men and therefore it is filled with creative ferment," added Regent Charles Gelatt, dean of the board in terms of service and the only member to have served through the entire controversy.

Similar Problems in Nation

Medical schools attached to universities are finding similar problems throughout the nation, said Gelatt.

Eichman will continue to serve the UW and the state in a number of capacities, said UW Executive Vice President Donald Percy. He is returning to his post as a professor of neurology and medicine and will work part-time as the coordinator of health affairs for the central system.

But well-informed sources indicate that the continuing internal problems were the direct cause of the resignation, which will become final Friday.

Eichman wanted the post as vice chancellor for medical affairs and was refused because of opposition within the school and on the board.

Offered Resignation

One of the keynotes of that problem was the offered resignation of Dr. Anthony Curreri, popular head of the school's surgery department, and central figure in the decade-old battle within the school and campus. The resignation according to reports, had been offered Eichman a year ago in a continuation of the professional and personal disagreements within the school which led to near-rebellion in the early years of the last decade.

When Curreri's rise in the department and the school was blocked during that period, many of his colleagues openly rebelled, splitting the medical school, rocking presidents, and leading to the downfall of deans.

Eichman was blocked, according to the reports, because of his inability to prevent a continuation of the mutually destructive warfare, and because he had raised personal objections from some regents on his own.

When the search committee came up with a list of six nominees, and Eichman's name was not included, the process reached the explosive stage.

First Choice

Turned Post Down
While rumors of Eichman's new resignation circulated, the UW brought to the Madison campus the nominee who placed first on the committee's list. He listened to the battling for a few days, and promptly decided he did not wish to give up all he had earned in a successful career to try to handle a problem which is that deep and that complex.

The regents hoped to be able to present another choice at its final board meeting before merger, but were unable to win an acceptance on short notice.

The search, the conflicts, and the divisions continue for Wisconsin's new board of regents.

New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss . . . and grow more hair.

For years "they said it couldn't be done". But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for both men and women, that is not only stopping hair loss . . . but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. They invite you to try the treatment for 32 days, at their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this opportunity unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

The great majority of cases of excessive hair fall and baldness are the beginning and more fully developed stages of male pattern baldness and cannot be helped.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness may seem to "run in your family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of YOUR hair loss.

Hair loss caused by sebum can also run in your family, and many other conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald, and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair . . . now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc., will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation.

High Court Reverses Good Time Revocation

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A prisoner committed to Central State Hospital after his conviction in Outagamie County in 1962 for sex crimes has won a writ of habeas corpus from the Wisconsin Supreme Court reversing prison officials' revocation of "good time" he has served.

Karl David J. Farrell, convicted on Nov. 15, 1962, on three counts of indecent behavior with a child may not necessarily be freed from the state hospital as a result of the court test, however. He is serving a 10 year term.

The test arose out of actions of the state's special parole review board in revoking good time previously earned by Farrell, after he had violated parole in 1967 and 1970. Before being state Department of Health and Social Services, not the special review board is the only agency empowered by law to revoke good time earned.

But in both instances, the head of the state agency simply "affirmed" the action of the review board, wrote Justice Horace Wilkie for the court. At the time of the revocations, the review board did not have the power under state law to make such decisions, according to the court's ruling.

The high court noted, however, that it was not able to calculate whether the decision could result in the freeing of Farrell, because the prisoner also apparently absconded during one of the releases, and that action could affect his parole eligibility.

Farrell also has been determined to be a sex deviate, and the department may wish to apply to Outagamie County court for authority to deny the prisoner parole because he is dangerous, and compel him to serve his entire 10 year term.

Farrell was represented in the case by state Public Defender James H. McDermott. The state

2 Negro Greats At White House Worship Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis and singer Pearl Bailey joined the families of three prisoners of war as guests of President Nixon at White House worship services.

Dr. D. Elton Trueblood, a professor at Indiana's Earlham College, delivered the sermon for the President and Mrs. Nixon and 350 guests. He said the answers to major problems "come not by a slide rule, but by the richness of our resources."

The President told the father of one serviceman missing in Vietnam that "we're working on it," a reference to administration efforts to obtain the release of all American POWs.

The Nixon's flew to Washington from a weekend stay at the presidential retreat at Camp David for the services Sunday.

The department was given 15 days in which to determine if Farrell is eligible for parole, and another 30 days to decide whether to seek the continued confinement authority from the local court.

UW System

Parkside, Green Bay to be Strongly Affected by Merger

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The greatest impact of merger will fall on the Green Bay and Parkside campuses, according to the man who got the bill through the State Senate.

State Sen. Raymond Johnson, R-Eau Claire, says that the bill signed Friday by Gov. Patrick J. Lucey will move the state toward "comparable funds for comparable programs" and that the greatest effects of this are going to be felt on the Green Bay and Kenosha County campuses of the University of Wisconsin.

State university officials have long argued that the Green Bay and Parkside campuses receive favorable financial support in state tax terms in comparison with larger and more complete state universities.

In an interview, the floor manager of the merger bill said that officials of the now abolished Coordinating Council for Higher Education were continually unable to explain to him and other lawmakers why more money apparently was being spent at Green Bay and Parkside than at comparable state university campuses.

"They said that the University of Wisconsin campuses aspired to graduate missions on the Milwaukee pattern," he said.

"Then what nailed the issue (for legislators) was when Karl Krill left and said the five doctorate and masters' programs at the Milwaukee campus were simply too thin," said Johnson.

Krill was the dean of the UW-Milwaukee graduate school, and resigned in protest at CCHE policies limiting graduate level work.

"It's obvious that Parkside and Green Bay are far too thin for graduate work," said the influential legislator.

"We can't have every campus thinking like a Big 10 or national graduate school," he added.

"Merger will be a hollow victory if you don't get at some of the crucial questions such as classroom and building utilization, educational priorities, and comparable funds for comparable programs," Johnson warned.

Future legislatures will be closely watching the University of Wisconsin system in regard to the "comparable funds for comparable programs" aspect of past complaints, he warned.

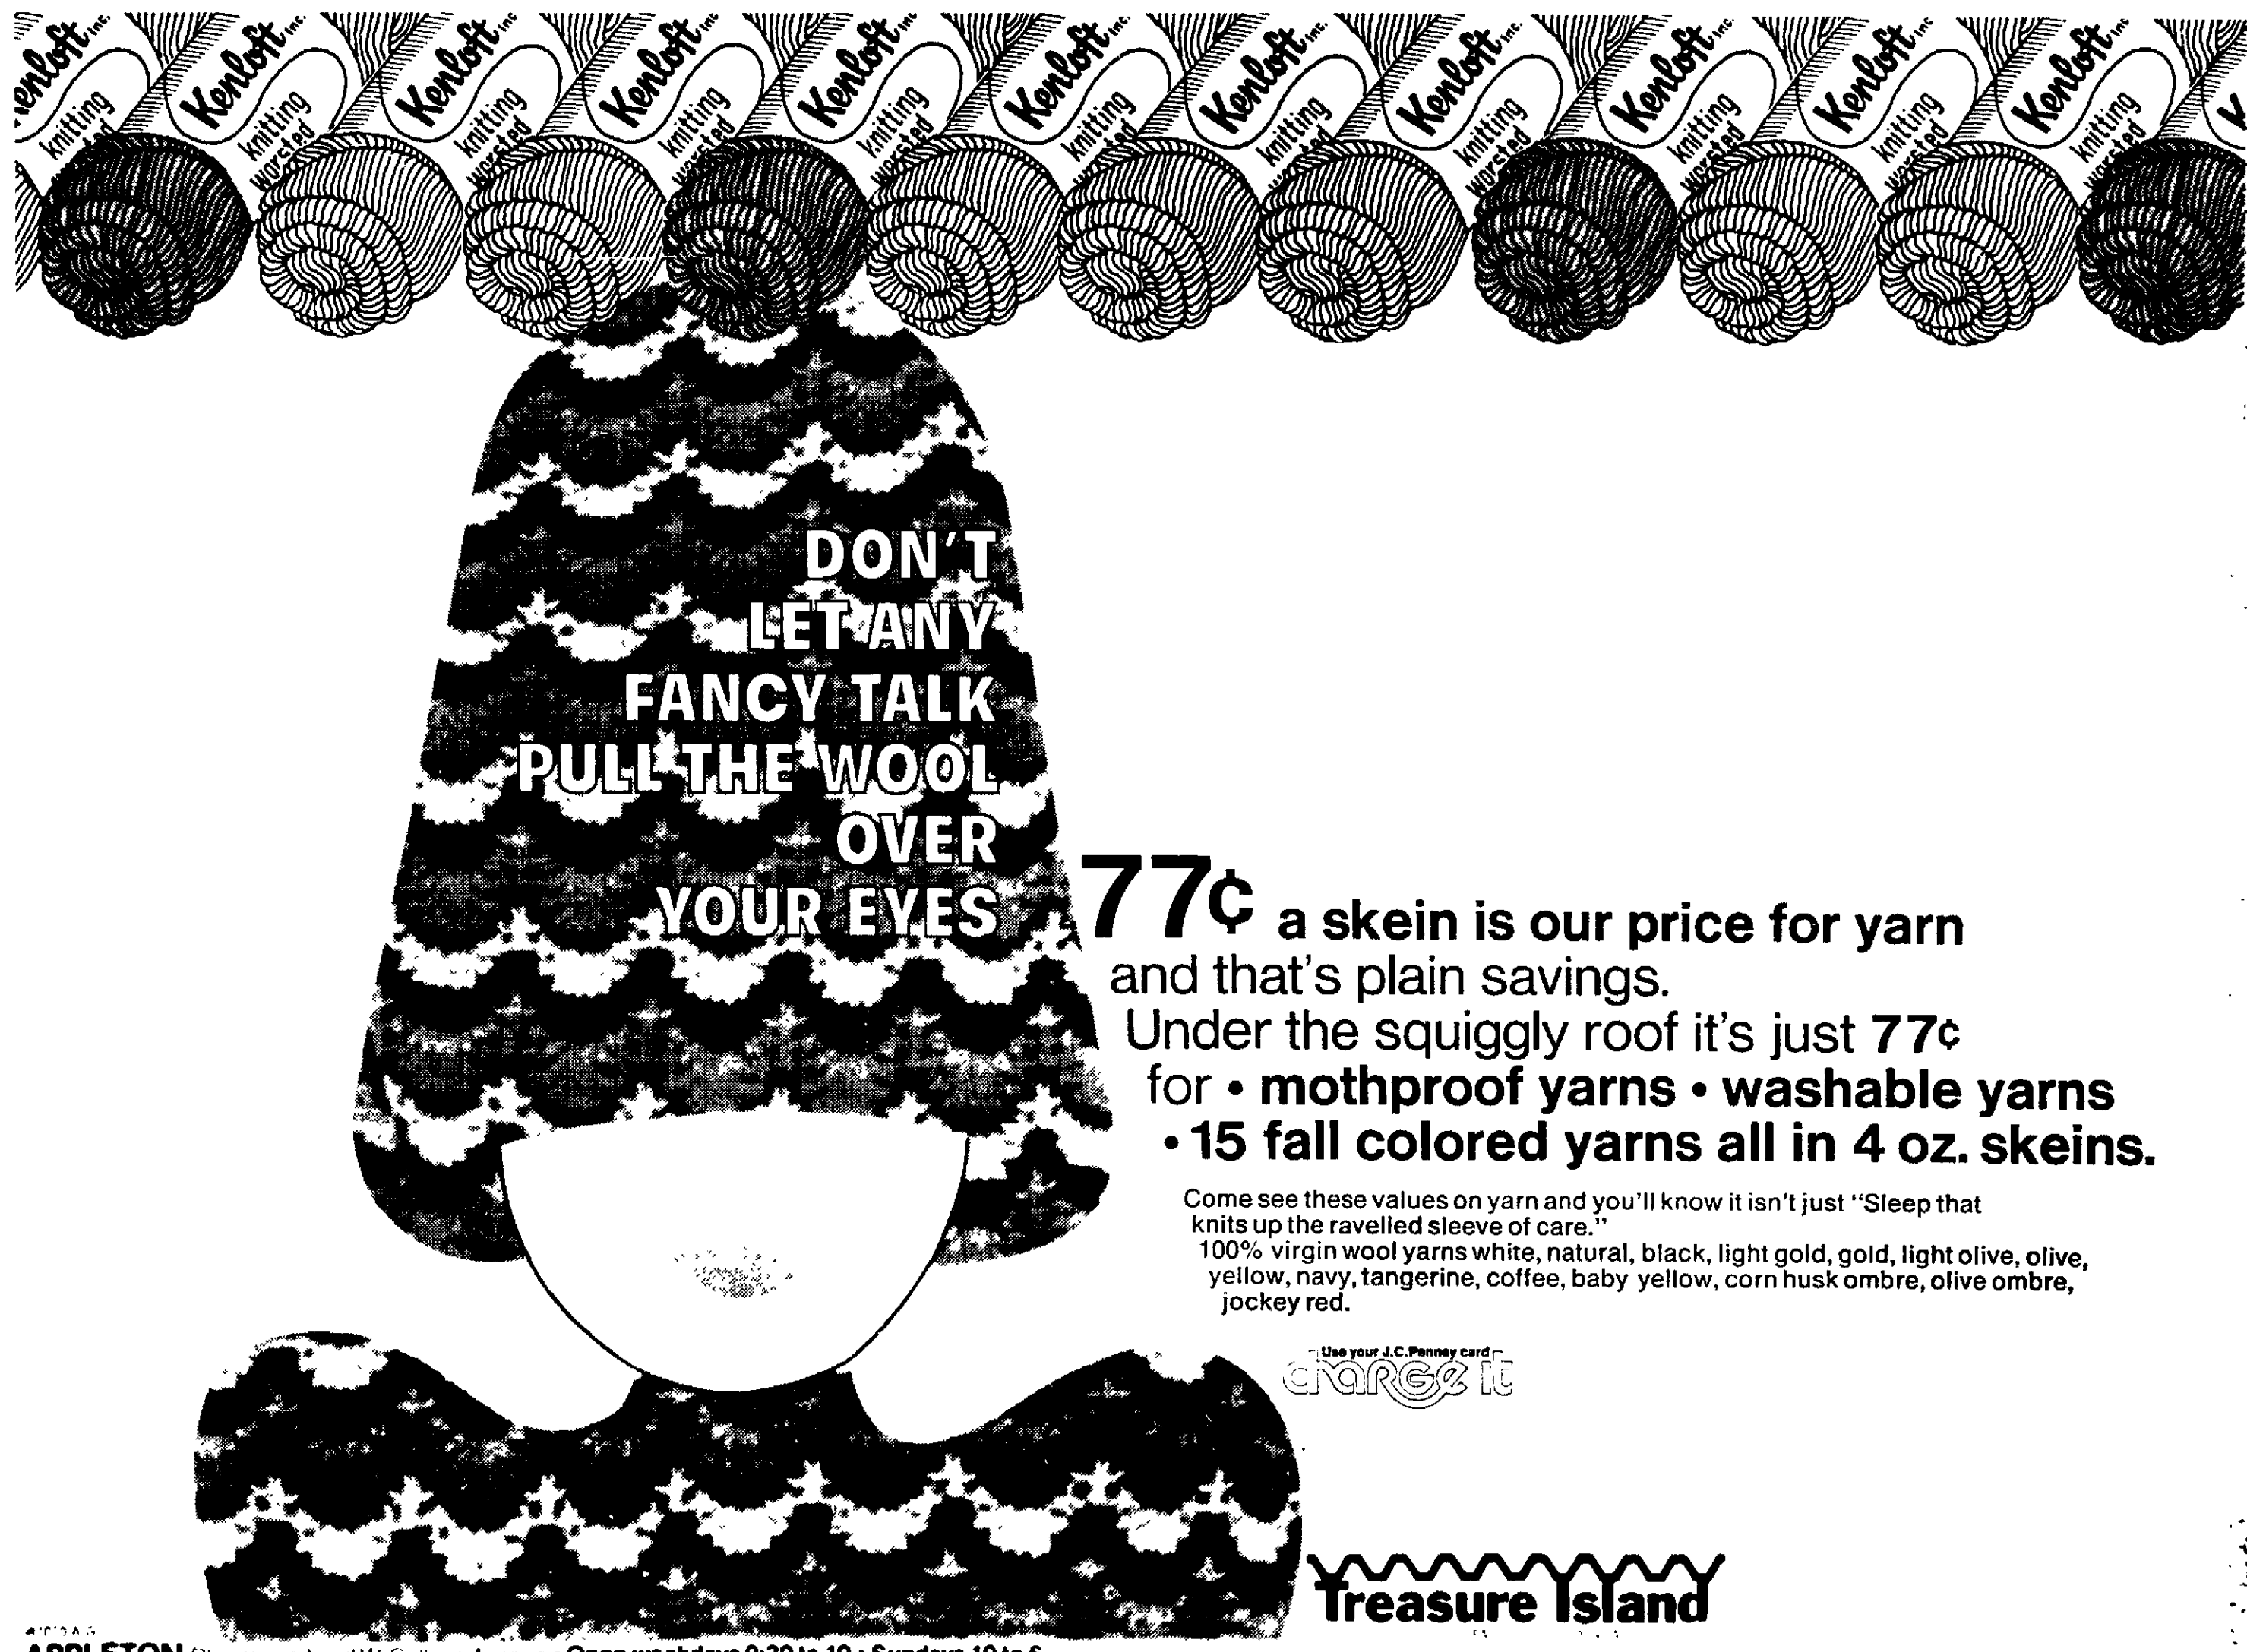

Indian Excavation

Archaeology Program

A lesson in Indian archaeological excavation called "4-Butte-1," a movie, will be shown at the 8 p.m. meeting Tuesday of the Appleton Society of the Archaeological Institute of America.

The meeting will be held in Room 161 of Youngchild Hall of Science on Lawrence University campus.

The film is on the excavation of an Indian village in the Sacramento Valley, showing the land before, during and after the excavation work.

Saved Again

It certainly must be a relief to some people that those who still buy contraceptives over the counter without any hindrance whatsoever are purchasing "indecent objects."

The State Senate turned down a liberalization of the bill which would have taken contraceptives off the "indecent object" list and have permitted their sale to the unmarried and would have allowed counseling by welfare agencies as to their use. Those under 18 would have had to have parental permission.

Continuance of the law does little except make the Wisconsin Senate look ridiculous. Contraceptives will still be readily available. Doctors will continue to prescribe. There may be continued increased births among the poor but then one black leader claims that pushing birth control is a form of genocide anyway. The excuse that it was a Roman Catholic lobby which defeated the bill seems specious; statistics show that a high percentage of Roman Catholics use contraceptives whatever the Pope says and that a lot more are in favor of them.

Now — what about "indecent objects"? Have the righteous morally inclined senators gone into the matter of such things as vibrators, dildos and the like, readily available by mail or aren't they quite up to tackling those unmentionables yet? And what will the Senators do about masturbation? Since they seem bound to protect all of us from the dangers of illegal sex, they've a big package cut out for them.

Our water may be polluted, the fish filled with mercury, the air near the big cities clogged with grime, statistics of violent crime climbing, but by golly, contraceptives are still indecent objects. We are going to be pure indeed.

This Is a Bad Amendment

Although at least one and perhaps two constitutional amendments were passed hastily and regretted at leisure, the process is not usually a casual one. So it is likely that an amendment proposed by Senator William Brock of Tennessee will come to nothing. Nevertheless the thinking behind the proposal deserves scrutiny.

Senator Brock is unhappy about the United States Supreme Court decision that laws against bussing of school children to achieve racial balance in the schools were unconstitutional. The decision means that such bussing can be authorized in the south or at least no laws against such bussing programs can be passed. But to Senator Brock "it is now obvious that Congress must act to protect American youth from judicial abuse. The new Supreme Court policy is no less discriminatory and no less wrong than prior attempts to maintain de jure segregation." Senator Brock's proposed constitutional amendment would specify that no student should be assigned or required to attend a particular school.

There is some validity to Senator Brock's claim that children need "a neighborhood school with familiar faces and in familiar surroundings" and that their "emotional as well as their intellectual well being" must be taken into consideration. The argument was never used by segregationists, however, before Supreme Court rulings outlawed de jure segregation.

But if the amendment went into effect the results would be chaos. While there have been efforts to ameliorate de facto segregation by permitting students by choice to transfer to schools in other areas of a city, a wholesale switching would be highly expensive and inefficient. Classes with teachers who had a reputation for being hard graders would have rows of empty seats. Schools with swimming pools or new gymnasiums or good hot lunch might be jammed. Attempts by school boards and administrations to offer equal educational opportunities or set up vocationally or academically oriented schools as is done in some large cities would be in vain.

And segregation of course would be maintained in spite of the studies that indicate it handicaps all children, black and white, who go to school under segregated conditions whatever the causes.

There are no simple answers to the problems which grew from the century old system of separation of the races in schools. Most assuredly Senator Brock's proposal is no solution at all.

A Reward for Losing $38.8 Million

The whole thing is just about impossible for the checkbook-balancing citizen to comprehend.

First of all, First National City Bank of New York last March 3 bought $38.8 million in notes of the Export-Import Bank. But the New York bank, the nation's second largest, transferred twice that amount to the federal treasury. The $38.8 million apparently floated around until May 19 without anybody knowing about it. Then, the bank not the government discovered the mistake.

National City immediately sent a telegram to the treasury asking for its money back — and that certainly is understandable enough. But then the bank also asked for and received $38.8 million to use without interest for two and one-half months, sort of to make up at public cost what it would have made on loans if it hadn't made the bookkeeping mistake — or something like that. In the meantime, the prime interest rate went up so the bank made more with the federal money than it would have if it hadn't misplaced its own $38.8 million.

"They had the use of the money, the treasury did," explained National City Vice President Harry Conover when asked to explain why the government had an obligation to provide the money the bank should have had last spring.

Rep. Wright Patman, the cantankerous chairman of the House Banking Committee, thinks an investigation is in order. The bank should turn over to the government the money it made through use of the $38.8 million in federal funds, the Treasury Department should explain how in the world it believes it has authority to do such a thing and the whole tale illustrates that something ought to be done to spread around government deposits now going to only one-tenth of the nation's larger banks, Patman says.

It's the kind of relationship, Patman notes, that the average citizen does not have if, for example, he sends in too much for his income tax.

That's for sure.

Bonanza for Teamster Steenis

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Oct. 7, 1871.

Pete Steenis, as he is familiarly known in this place, is one of our most industrious citizens, although he has but one whole leg to get around upon.

Pete runs several teams in town, doing general teaming work, and is always busy because he never swindles, but hauls large loads.

Well, since the drouth came upon us, he has had all he could do to draw water from the river in his tank, which holds 12 barrels. He fills in a very few minutes from the foundry flume, and has been able to deliver eight or nine loads a day, making it pay handsomely.

He has even had to draw water to some of the exhausted wells about town.

Cowboys Make The Long Haul

FORTH WORTH, Tex. (AP) — International Rodeo Association (IRA) cowboys, stock contractors and specialty acts traveled more than 27 million miles in 1970 and spread over $13 million across the nation in the process.

Those figures followed a survey conducted by the IRA and the totals reflect miles traveled and money spent for necessities of the trade by about 2,500 members.

Another Tough Decision Is Facing Nixon on War's End

BY JOSEPH KRAFT

SAIGON — The latest development here in Vietnam make certain another early round of the distorted Presidential decision-making that has always been so prominent a cause of trouble in the war.

In the middle of next month President Nixon is to announce a new schedule for withdrawal of American troops. And matters have fallen out so that he has to make his decision with maximum exposure to the conflicting demands of Saigon, Hanoi and American public opinion.

Under current schedules, the American military presence here will be down to below 184,000 men by Dec. 1. The rate of withdrawal is averaging about 15,000 per month. Thus just by maintaining that clip, President Nixon would have virtually all American troops out by election time next year.

Wants 50,000 Men
But President Nguyen Van Thieu wants a continuing American military presence through 1973. He talks of 50,000 men serving as unit advisers, and providing air support with helicopters and fighter-bombers. His re-election with 90 per cent of the vote is only going to stiffen his demands.

Without exactly saying so, the leading American officials here support President Thieu's views, feel great gains are now being made in government ability and economic stability. They believe these gains can be fully realized only if security is assured for the next few years.

The American military, heading up in Gen. Creighton Abrams, believe government forces have shown steady improvement. But recent engagements in Laos, Cambodia and Tay Ninh Province have demonstrated a heavy dependence on air support. In particular, according to one authority here, the South Vietnamese are hooked on helicopters.

But with only 500 helicopters, the South Vietnamese are a long, long way from having the kind of air support the United States has been making available with its force of more than 3,000 choppers. So almost all the American military here believe the United States should continue to provide helicopter assistance, tactical air support, and coordination

Such attacks could easily be timed for next October when the weather will be good here in Vietnam, and the political fever intense back home. Indeed, it strains credulity to believe that the hard-nosed men of Hanoi could resist such an opportunity for pulling the rug out from under President Nixon.

But while these dangers are distant, the pressures from Saigon are immediate. So once again an American President is caught up in the crazy, mixed-up decision-making process that has all along been characteristic of Vietnam.

The truly hard decision would be to go now for full American withdrawal in 1972. That would mean a difficult period in relations between Washington and Saigon. It would involve some dicey negotiations with Hanoi about prisoners. But it would guarantee that the United States was out of Vietnam, once and for all, on its own momentum.

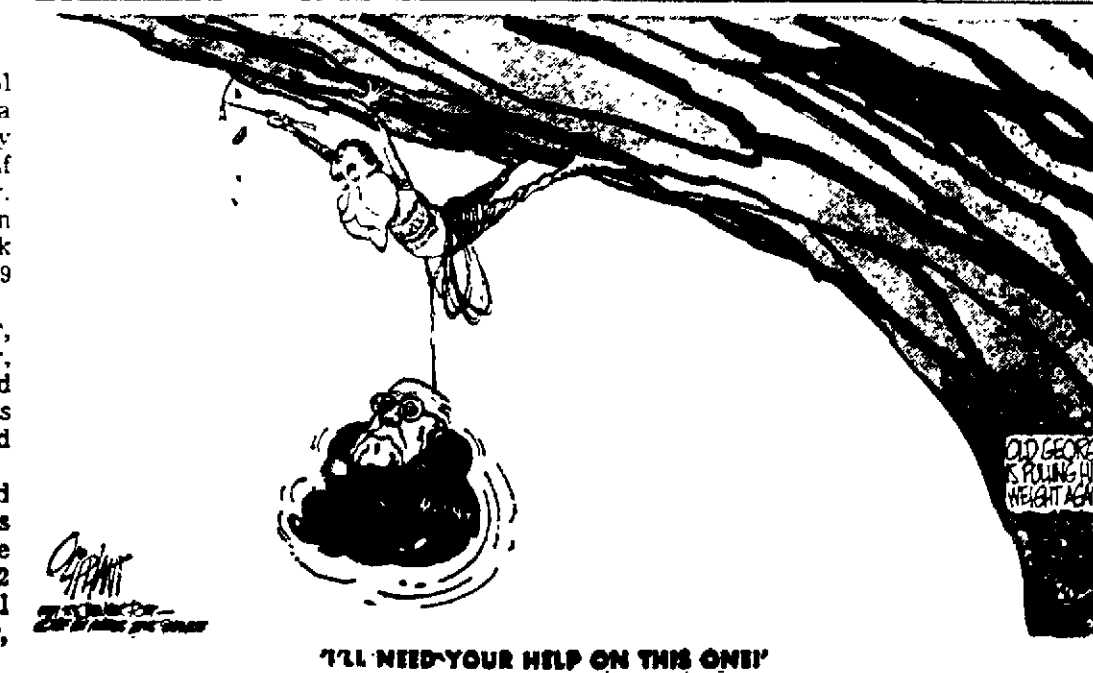

The truly soft decision is to go for the residual force. That would keep alive in Saigon the pleasant sensation of slow progress toward an indefinite goal. It would look like resisting domestic political pressure stimulated by Hanoi's maneuvering on the prisoner issue. But in the end, it would guarantee that the 1972 American election would be fought out with the Vietnam war still on, with American troops still exposed, with American prisoners in Communist hands, and the United States divided once again on the bloody sore that is Vietnam.

Wisconsin Report

It's Difficult to See How Merger Will Cut Administrative Costs

BY SAM GATES

MADISON — References to the University of Wisconsin in Madison as the only "jewel in the crown" among all of our public universities leads me to observe that "beauty is in the eye of the beholder."

None of us in the WSU System would deny the University at Madison of its rightful place at the pinnacle of excellence in the hierarchy of higher education in Wisconsin.

Gates

Sam Gates was assistant director of the Wisconsin State Universities System when he was invited by John Wyzgaard to contribute a guest column. He has since resigned to become executive director of the state college system in his native Colorado.

Yet, many of us take more than casual pride in the quality of Wisconsin's nine state universities, their 4,000 faculty members, their 64,000 students and their collective contributions to Wisconsin over the past century.

Let us forget, the historical biography of the state universities during this period reflects a proud tradition and a most distinguished record of achievement. This record is too significant and too important to be either lightly dismissed or even blemished by the rhetoric of merger.

Citizens Need Information
The people of Wisconsin need to be informed that this system has had the undivided, skillful attention of a dedicated and distinguished Board of Regents and strong central administrative leadership from its executive director, Eugene R. McPhee. I can only praise Eugene McPhee's strong leadership and compliment the members of his centralized administrative staff on effective organization, prudent fiscal management, and overall operation.

It seems to me that if the state universities are guilty of anything it can only be of accepting the Avis Principle: "We may be No. 2, but we try harder." I have always considered this characteristic an American virtue.

In the rhetoric about merger, no one really talked about the nuts and bolts, just theory. Someone, sometime, somewhere will have to answer two fundamental questions — who will do the work and what will it cost?

I sense that the underlying assumption of those who urged merger is that in the transfer of the WSU central administrative workload to the University of Wisconsin, the state will get twice the work for half the administrative cost. This is nice theory but it is not realistic. The work is here and someone has to do it.

Won't Cut Costs

Advocates of merger must assume that the added work will be done either by the combined staffs of the two existing central administrative units, or by additional personnel paid from funds derived by chargeback fees assessed to each individual campus budget or that the work will be delegated back to the nine individual campus administrative units which will meet the additional workload by adding staff.

None of these methods will significantly reduce overall administrative costs, and experience tells us that efficiency and coordination of operation will be lost in the process.

As it now stands, merger is a pig in a poke. As I see it, the only way to assure specific cost benefits from merger is for the statutes to spell out the specific details.

I suspect that the real savings which the budget analysts are silently considering can only relate to differentiated salary and workload levels for faculty members who are employed at one type university, as defined by its mission statement, as opposed to higher salaries and lower workload levels for faculty members employed at another. If true, the implementation and exploitation of this policy can only have long-range and serious implications for both the quality of teaching and for faculty morale.

Questions Raised on Technical Education

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

If, this June, your son received a Ph.D. degree in aerospace engineering, half of what he knows when he graduates will be obsolete in ten years. For fully half of what he needs to know for the next ten years is completely unknown today.

This "obsolescence of knowledge," especially in scientific fields, is changing the whole idea of what constitutes a "good" college education. And it reaffirms those of us who have been saying for a long time that learning how to learn is the most important part of education.

The real reason that vocational and "specialist" training is largely pointless today lies in the rapid outdating of so much technical knowledge and skills. Even our newest profession — that of programming computers — will soon be obsolete, when the computers are built that will program themselves.

What the new society of the future calls for are versatility and flexibility and creativity. These cannot be learned in a technical sense; they are part of a liberal education, which teaches men and women how to think, not just how to put things together and make them work. The new machines will be able to put things together much better than people can.

It is no accident that, for the first time, the prestigious Massachusetts Institute of Technology has appointed a president who is neither a scientist nor a technician. Or that business schools, such as those at Harvard and Columbia, have shifted their emphasis from the technical aspects of business administration to a broader program of liberal arts.

In a recent talk, Dr. Arnold Ducoffe, director of Georgia Tech's School of Aerospace Engineering, remarked that this obsolescence of knowledge is the big reason that today's engineering schools no longer stress the "mechanical," but rather the "philosophical" elements in science — not how to do something, but why something is true. If we learn the reasons behind phenomena, then we can cope with changing conditions.

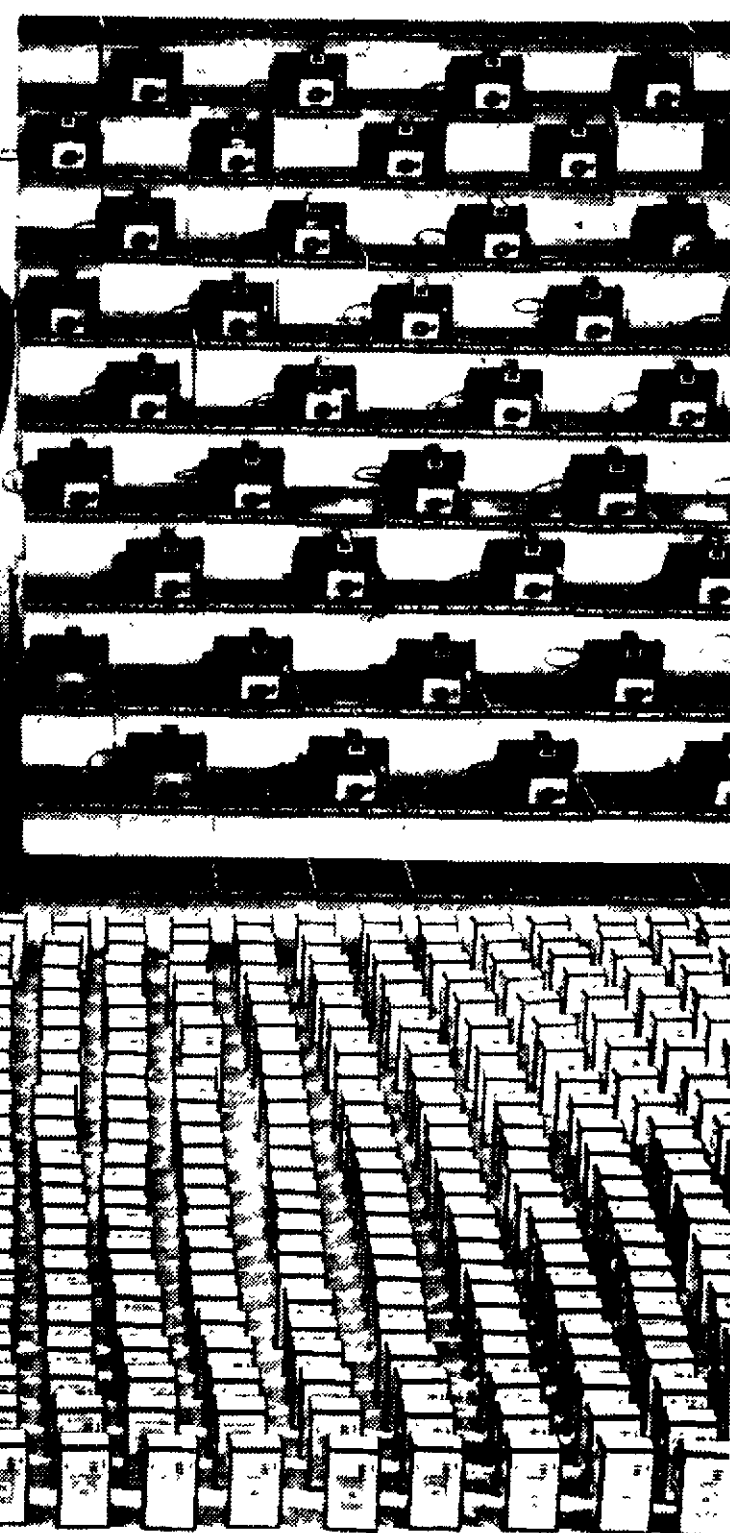

Our pressing need is for men and women who can adapt to needs and acquire skills that are barely on the horizon today. More and more, the function of the specialist is being taken over by the machines. It is the "generalist," who can make decisions based on an imaginative projection of the future, we so desperately require to keep the wheels turning.

In the past, the average man would change his job three times during his lifetime. In the future, we are told, the average man may have to change his vocation three times during his lifetime. Unless he learns how to learn, in a philosophical sense, the specialist may become a dropout from the economic community.
